Dear fellow Oaklanders, I am seeking to be your next mayor to serve my community in the best way that I can.

My campaign is grounded in presenting a set of sensible solutions, backed by a proven track record of accomplishments, and underpinned by my unwavering principles.

While overcoming our city’s problems may seem insurmountable to some, I am convinced that solutions are well within our grasp. What we have lacked to date are creativity, capability, and courage.

Our #1 obstacle is the corrosive impact of campaign financing on our politicians. That’s why I am refusing all dirty-money donations from corporations, non-Oaklanders, or in excess of $45 so I won’t be indebted to anyone other than the people of Oakland.

To allow Oaklanders make an informed decision this fall, I have drafted a detailed set of solutions that are tangible, measurable, and discrete.

While having a set of sensible solutions is necessary, it is far from sufficient. You can trust that my decades of devising and implementing practical solutions in large and complex enterprises will be instrumental in implementing lasting solutions to our city’s most difficult challenges.
